ROBERT M. CLARK IS ELECTROCUTED AT POWER PLANT

Robert M. Clark, a member of the local Electrical Workers union, the Woodmen of the World, and the Owls lodges and one of the best known made unionists of the city, was electrocuted at the plant of the Utah Light & Railway company on Twelfth street about 10 o'clock this morning. Death, according to the men who removed him from the pole five minutes after the 16,000 volts of electricity from the high tension wire had passed through his body, was instantaneous.

Coroner W. H. Reeder and Undertaker Elijah Larkin were immediately summoned and arrived shortly after the tragedy. After investigating the cause, the coroner decided that an inquest would not be necessary, and the remains were removed to the undertaking parlors where an examination showed that the only burn that had been made by the powerful current was on the right thumb.

According to the story told a representative of The Standard, by Frank Carr, superintendent of the plant, and R. Vance Pearson, line foreman for the Ogden branch of the company, Clark, a high tension patrolman, was on a main line pole, preparing to tap the Bountiful line for a temporary feeding current for the lighting-rester. The current had been cut from the main line and was to have been cut from the other line as soon as Clark had finished preparing the tapping wires. But fate decreed otherwise, and in a manner that will probably never be known, the electrician received the full force of the current that was still running through the Bountiful line. It was the surmise of his fellow workmen, however, that in some manner the tapping wires had been filled on to the other wires.

The limp body was first noticed by Operator Joseph DeLong who immediately called Pearson. They removed the body from the pole and worked over it for nearly half an hour, but life was extinct. It was said by Pearson, that the body could have been hanging on the pole only two or three minutes before it was noticed, as the other men had been working in the plant only a few yards away while Clark was getting ready to complete his work.

Mr. Clark is survived by a wife and four children, William, Claude R. Margaret and Mrs. Mary Lawrence. William is living at Ocean Park, Cal., and Mrs. R. M. Clark is at present visiting at the home in Ogden. The family resided at 314 Washington avenue.

Bob, as he is familiarly known, was active for a number of years in local union labor circles, his activities, in particular being connected with the Ogden Trades and Labor Assembly and the local Electrical Workers union.

GRAND JURY HALTS IN SLINGSBY PROBE; PERJURY CHARGES MAY BE WITHDRAWN

Mrs. Charles Slingsby.

The grand jury probe into the "baby substitution case" in San Francisco has been postponed. An indictment for perjury was sought against Mrs. Charles Slingsby, who was charged with having substituted another baby for her own stillborn child and then swearing in the birth certificate that the child was hers. The case is now before the British consul in San Francisco. If this tribunal finds Mrs. Slingsby guilty the Slingsbys will lose the income of a $1,000,000 estate in England. The grand jury probe may then be resumed.

DETECTIVES ON POLICE FORCE MAKE AN ARREST OF A SUSPECT

Man Taken Into Custody Proves to be a Pinkerton Who Had Not Made His Identity Known—Was Acting in a Mysterious Manner—Second Arrest Made During the Day—Much Activity in Police Circles—Many Wild Rumors Denied—Reward Should Be Increased.

That the officers of the police department and the sheriff's office are alert in the blackmailing case which is now in their hands, is evidenced by the fact that every possible clue, remote or otherwise, is being followed and arrests are being made. Both Chief of Police W. I. Norton and Sheriff T. A. De Vine, together with the detectives on the case, say there will be no stone left unturned and that they are ready to take a chance with the bandits in any and all circumstances. Every suspicious character is carefully watched.

Much excitement was occasioned at about 11 o'clock this morning when Detective George Wardlaw suddenly pounced upon a man standing in front of the Ogden State bank and wrenched from a scabbard under his coat a 45-caliber revolver at the same time informing the stranger that he was under arrest. No sooner had Wardlaw grabbed the man than Detective L. Heiney of the Thiel detective agency, who was standing near, and who had been shadowing Wardlaw, rushed to the scene and aided in the arrest.

The fellow was rapidly marched to the police station between the two officers and word went out that one of the blackmailers had been caught. Excitement prevailed and people soon began gathering at the station to get a glimpse of a real bandit. The large Eccles automobile was soon at the station, where Royal Eccles and detective Heiney alighted and hurried to the chief's office.

A search of the man disclosed that he was a Pinkerton named J. W. Cox who had been working on the blackmailing case a number of days without making his identity known to the officers. He had no trouble in identifying himself by his card and by telephone communication with Salt Lake. He was then released.

The detective smiled over the event and remarked that there were some detectives in Ogden. When Wardlaw snatched the revolver from under his coat, Cox was quite dumfounded, as he had not realized that he was being trailed. He first told Officer Wardlaw not to remove his gun from the scabbard, but Wardlaw had it out and in his own pocket before the words had left the man's lips. Cox had been under cover during all the forenoon and suspicion pointed toward him last evening. He was watched in all his movements this morning and the officers had gone so far as to make preparations to intercept a letter which he had placed in a mail box on the corner.

Immediately following this arrest the officers apprehended a stranger whose name was not disclosed, but who proved to be an innocent party, who stated to the police that he was on his way west to spend a couple of thousand dollars and that he had had no trouble in getting rid of some of it in Ogden. He was under the influence of liquor.

It was rumored last evening that the Eccles family had received a telephone call from a local hotel from one of the bandits and that the man was being endowed with a prospect of an early arrest. The officers say that the rumor was not well founded, as nothing of the kind had been brought to their attention.

Sheriff De Vine denies that he has given an interview in which he attempted to state how many persons may be implicated in the blackmailing scheme, or that there is a woman mixed up in it.

"I have made no such statement," the sheriff said today, "and I am not pretending to figure out how many people may or may not be implicated. There may be a half dozen in the deal for all I know. The thing that concerns Chief Norton and myself at this time is to get hold of a clue that will lead us to some substantial basis of operation."

The story that two of the bandits, one disguised as a woman had been seen climbing fences across the country in the vicinity of West Weber Sunday afternoon, is completely exploded by the statement of officers that the parties referred to were residents of this city, man and wife, who were out for a hike, going as far as Reese and riding back on the train. Their names are withheld. Deputy Sheriff Hobson and Leatham drove behind them with a horse and buggy for a long distance and the officers say that the couple walked along the railroad track nearly all the way. The woman was dressed in short skirts and wore heavy shoes, while the man had a grey business suit and did not walk with his hands in his pockets, as reported.

The board of city commissioners have not yet taken up the consideration of the question of offering a reward for the bandits and Mayor Fell-

Is This The "Wright" Door?

"Don't Get in the Wrong Door," is good advice. Be sure to get into the "Wright Door," however, is better. A good many men got into the "Wright Door" yesterday and also today—a good many of them will appear in "Wright Suits" tomorrow.

In this November Suit Sale for Men we are offering splendidly tailored, all wool, guaranteed Hart Schaffner & Marx Suits of this Fall's making, at lowered prices. There are four "Wright Doors" by which you can get to this sale—through the "Wright" big store or through the "Wright Clothing Entrance." In order to "get in right" use any of these "Wright Entrances."

EXPECT HUERTA TO IGNORE WILSON DEMAND AND REMAIN MEXICAN DICTATOR

Dictator Huerta.

That General Huerta will continue defiant of President Wilson's latest demand and hang on to the presidency of Mexico for a time at least is the opinion of diplomats both at Washington and in the Mexican capital. Huerta is attempting to gain sympathy from European powers by representing to them that the Washington government has hampered his every effort to restore peace.

MAKING WATER PALATABLE.

It is surprising, as pointed out by Lederer, that so little attention has been paid to the question of removing the taste from water supplies treated with chlorinated lime in this country especially, where the treatment of many large public supplies has been carried out with brilliant sanitary success, there has been frequent and often bitter complaint about the taste of the treated water.

As well known, antagonism has developed in many places between water boards and health departments as a result of these conditions. On one side is the recognition that the danger from water-borne diseases is greatly reduced by the hypochlorite treatment; on the other is the necessity of having to bear the burden of complaint and to meet the indignities of thousands of aggrieved water drinkers. As Lederer shows, a simple method for removing the taste from hypochlorite-treated water is the use of sodium thiosulphate. He has obtained good results in the elimination of taste in Lake Michigan water treated in this way.

It must be remembered that thiosulphate stops the germicidal action of the chlorine so that it is necessary to allow the chlorine to act for ten to fifteen minutes before the thiosulphate is added. In this way, says the Journal of the American Medical association, water can be made both safe and palatable.

The "has been" barnacles have wrecked many a promising political party.

Literary quacks are at times nearly as dangerous as the medical humbugs.
